Dear Friends, Sisters and Brothers in Jesus Christ,

One very interesting thing about the church is that we have this season when we contemplate death, the “not to be” part of the famous Shakespearean question. We begin this season with smearing ashes mixed in with olive oil on our foreheads and remember that we are dust and to dust we will eventually return. This season is in a striking contrast with what our culture strives to promote. Most of what we see in ads and hear in commercials these days is about how this very diet or this very set of exercises or this very combination of vitamins or this very medical procedure or this very career or educational route will help us avoid insignificance or unimportance, or that we can age more gracefully and remain youthful, healthy, and attractive as long as we “consume” the advertised product or at least, for as long as “humanly” possible. But then on the other hand, we have God, God who willingly becomes human, “Emmanuel” – God with us and one of us; God who lives a short and at times even inglorious life; God who goes through a great deal of human suffering; God who dies an extremely painful and disgraceful death on a cross, a Roman instrument of torture and humiliation. – We aspire to that what is lasting, beautiful or comfortable, all the while God’s Son Jesus makes his home in that what is broken and incomplete.

Lent is a time for us to give some thought to this striking contrast. It is also a time for us to think about the questions of identity, the questions of who we are and of what it is that we need to do. The season of Lent challenges us with the most difficult matters out there. Will this church be faithful and follow in the footsteps of Jesus, whom it professes as its Savior? Will these pastors be faithful and follow in the footsteps of Jesus, whom they profess as their Savior? Will you be faithful and follow in the footsteps of Jesus, whom you profess as your Savior? It is as simple as that: We all are Christians, we all believe in God, we all profess Jesus as our Savior – but what kind of a Christian will you and I choose to be?

We will soon enter the season of Lent, again. Let this be a new beginning for each one of us. Jesus has done the hard part for us. We have been empowered and gifted by his Spirit. We have the ability, the responsibility, and the duty to take this privilege to live a disciplined Christian life, a life that speaks of God’s kindness and of God’s all-encompassing love. May ours be not just the words, but the holy commitment honoring the promises that we have made in God’s presence.

In Christ’s love,

Pastor Romi

Brothers and sisters in Christ, hospitality hour volunteers are needed. It does not have to be difficult or expensive. Keurigs are in place and members are encouraged to bring pods. A coffee cake, cookies and grapes are the simple route and very manageable for most.

Please see Diane Burton or Susan Oliva for help or questions, or sign up with a friend!
Thank you!

A note from our Children's Ministry:

We begin a new year setting high hopes and expectations for ourselves and each other. Much discussion has ensued about our pageant and its positive impact at Church. We are now working on another Sunday school event for Easter Sunday during the 10 AM service.

Our children's choir is beginning to resume the Sunday morning 9 AM children's choir practice. The children's choir will be sharing their gifts on Palm Sunday, as well as Easter Sunday. You can anticipate the children's choir doing something special on both Mother's and Father's day as well.

With confirmation classes beginning with Pastor David in March, we have already begun to talk with our confirmands about the learning process and our commitment to service.

Our acolytes and call to worship readers have been present and reliable, and working well at supporting each other's work.

Despite some spotty attendance during the cold month of January, classes have continued, as well as the nursery school. Much of the month has been devoted to listening to God and trying to discern God's will in each of our lives. To contribute to Black History Month, some Sunday school students will be reading prayers inspired by and written by African American Christians.

We are hoping that all Sunday school families will plan on being at the Shrove Tuesday Pancake Dinner on February 13 and receiving ashes on Wednesday, February 14.

As some of you may already know, we have our new website up and running at our original web address, <https://UMCPW.org>. When you have some time, please take a look. We have already added some new features:

- Sermon Podcasts, where you can listen to a sermon you may have missed on your Computer, phone or tablet.
- "From our Pastors - Blog" An opportunity to share insights with our new pastors.
- Join our Facebook group: <https://www.facebook.com/groups/1408259235935038/>
- Leave us your review on Yelp: <https://www.yelp.com/biz/united-methodist-church-of-port-washington-port-washington>

We sincerely hope you will like what you see, and, if you do, please share this with a friend. Please let me know if there is something you would like us to add or change. Regards, Doug Weston
